

LOSE HOPE FOR IRISH PEACE

HELD REPUBLICANS WILL SWING DAIL TO THEIR DEMANDS

Fear Terrific Civil War Will Be Added to Horrors of National War

FEAR PREMIER'S SPEECH HAS DONE MUCH HARM

Dublin Dispatches Declare Tension is Growing

LONDON.—Dispatches from Dublin to London newspapers appear to reflect pessimism over Irish situation in view of latest developments. Henry W. Newman, war correspondent and author, telegraphing the Daily Herald, says the situation is "undoubtedly very serious" and that he is "unable to see hope as brightly as some do." He adds, however, that hope still exists.

"If the Irish republicans," his dispatch continues, "frame the reply to Great Britain's terms and submit it to the Dail Eireann for approval rather than discussion, it almost certainly will be accepted with minor alterations. The members of the Dail are, for the most part, accustomed to discipline and were excited or up-set by the Irish republicans. The danger to further negotiations and a subsequent peace comes from the influence of the extremists and doctrinaires acting upon the spirit of militarism."

Predicts Civil War

In discussing the prospect if negotiations fail he declares:

If the truce be broken, war in its most terrible form will sweep through Ireland. Civil war will be added to national war, and all who refuse to support the republican army will be driven from the country or shot."

The Dublin correspondent of the Daily News says Premier Lloyd-George is being charged with "ruining the truce" in his address yesterday in the House of Commons. He says the speech may do infinite harm. "It is a fact," he adds, "that a section of the Irish republican leaders have been playing the dangerous game of bluff in order to secure better terms. It was desirable that Great Britain make the plainest possible declaration that the terms submitted were the very best possible. There is a general opinion that the consequences are likely to be fatal."

Tension is strained

DUBLIN.—Leaders of the Irish republican parliament were expected to confer with Eamon De Valera today at Black Rock where he is spending the week-end at the home of Professor John McNeill, speaker.

There has been a growing tension here during the last couple of days and Dublin castle authorities have given expression of their fear that fighting might possibly be precipitated by extremists on either side. Only incidents of a minor nature have occurred, however and it is hoped that a violation of the truce established last month may be averted.

ED MARKS IS BOUND OVER TO COURT ON CHARGE OF ROBBERY

Pleads Not Guilty to Picking Shriner's Pocket in Saloon; Held to Circuit Court

ACCUSED IS ARRESTED AS HE WAS PAYING POLICE FINE

Milwaukee Man Testifies He Saw Marks Taking Purse in Saloon

ED MARKS was bound over on Friday to circuit court, under $2,000 bond, by County Judge Brindley on charges of stealing a pocketbook containing about $40 from James McKusker of Red Wing.

McKusker came to La Crosse to attend the Shriner's ceremony last Saturday. He said he was in the Round bar, in South Fifth street, when he missed his pocketbook. He went to police headquarters with F. W. Orth of Milwaukee, who also was in the barroom to complain of his loss. When they arrived at headquarters Marks was there paying a fine that had been assessed against him Saturday morning by Judge Hunt for drunkenness. Marks was accused by both men of stealing McKusker's purse, it being charged that Marks was with McKusker in the saloon. Marks was arrested. Later the police found McKusker's purse in the alley outside of the saloon. There was no money in it.

At the hearing Friday McKusker could not positively identify Marks as the person who was with him last Saturday. He said he saw Marks take the purse from McKusker's pocket.

Fred H. Hartwell, Marks' lawyer, called Chief of Police Weber to the stand and despite the objections of District Attorney Reid and the chief, succeeded in making the chief a witness for the defense. The chief admitted that Marks had made no statement concerning the charges against him at the time of his arrest except to say: "Well, I guess they are going to try to make a goat of me and will try to give me a ride for this." Blaine Thompson, a policeman, who was in headquarters when Marks was arrested, testified that he did not hear Marks make any statement whatever.

Marks had entered a plea of not guilty and was not called to the stand during the hearing.

SPANISH REVERSES LAID TO RECKLESS POLICY OF GENERALS

Declared to Have Extended too Far from Bases Resulting in Success of Tribesmen

LONDON.—"The reverses suffered by the Spanish column in Morocco are attributed, mainly, to the recklessness of the generals in operating too far from their bases," says the Madrid correspondent of the London Times. "The extent of the disaster at Melilla," declares the correspondent, "is so far-reaching in its consequences that it is as yet impossible to estimate its effects."

Recounting the Spanish strength and telling of the actions, the correspondent asserts that some 10,000 Spaniards must be considered dead as "airplane observers have reported the roads littered with bodies."

"The wholesale killings, such as occurred at Ziluan and Sidriss, and to a part of Colonel Arnujo's column at Darqueb Dana and at Igueriben, accounts for the large numbers of dead," says the correspondent, "and the bare hills and ravines must have been the scene of many tragic murders of fugitives."

ERASMUS WAS A HAPPY GINK; HIS DOCTOR MADE HIM TAKE TO DRINK; BUT NOW HIS TEACHING'S ON THE BLINK

ERASMUS, ancient Dutch theologian, once became ill and, upon recovery, was told by his physician to drink wine. He was living in Holland at the time. The quality of the wine obtainable was not to Erasmus' liking so he packed up his quills and ink and writing paper, and his jars and penates and moved them all to a cozy little cottage next to a wine house in a Burgundian vineyard. There he obtained the finest of Burgundian wine, at its source of supply, lived long and happily and contributed many ponderous essays to the sum total of human intelligence.

But, on the other hand—John Weber of Rockland and Ed Mashek of Melville, tried to emulate the illustrious Erasmus with more or less dire results.

Weber suffered from an attack of the "flu" last year. After he had recovered his physician prescribed whiskey to tone and pep up his system. Weber bought whiskey at prohibition prices until he decided he would go broke buying liquor to tone up his system. So he took the matter up with Ed Mashek and they decided to beat the high cost of prohibition and go in to the manufacturing and distilling business for themselves, thus eliminating several middlemen's profits. All went well until prohibition officers got to nosing around and then Weber and Mashek ran afoul of the law and were arrested.

They were arraigned before County Judge Richardson of Sparta Friday, charged with making and having liquor in their possession. They pleaded guilty to the charge but declared that they were merely making the liquor for their own use, principally for Weber, as he was taking it as a medicine. William Gleiss, district attorney, succeeded in having a minimum fine of $100 each imposed on Weber and Mashek.

"Yes, times have changed since Erasmus was a youth," said Fred H. Hartwell, of La Crosse, who defended Weber and Mashek.

CORONER DEMANDS INDICTMENTS FOR ALLEGED POISONER HOOVER IS READY TO START SUCCOR WITHIN THE WEEK

Mrs. Demmer of Schiller Park Mystery Death Fame is Directly Accused

FALSE SUICIDE NOTE OF ONE OF THREE DEAD FOUND

Bodies of Husband, Lover and Latter's Wife Show Poison

CHICAGO, Ill.—A request that the state's attorney's office cause the indictment of Mrs. Mary Demmer in connection with the Schiller Park poison cases has been made by Coroner Hoffman, the coroner announced today.

Mrs. Demmer is held under bond in connection with the deaths of her husband, John Demmer, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kolze. Demmer died nine years ago and Mrs. Kolze died eight years ago. Following their deaths Mrs. Demmer acted as Kolze's housekeeper until about a month ago when he died.

The bodies were later exhumed and the vital organs examined, all showing traces of poison.

The coroner announced after questioning Mrs. Demmer that she had admitted she was jealous of Kolze and that she had attended all three poison victims during their last illness.

A suicide confession of Fred Kolze which hand-writing experts asserted was fictitious, was found a few days ago. Coroner Hoffman asserts he has considerable evidence against Mrs. Demmer. Edward P. Day, assistant state's attorney, announced that the entire matter will be submitted to State's Attorney Crowe next Wednesday.

RACINE, Wis.—The report yesterday that an attempt had been made to rob the state bank of Watford, Wis., turned out to be a false alarm.

DOLLY ARRESTED IN NIGHTGOWN; DRESSES TO FACE JUDGE HUNT

Dolly Quinn and John Smith got into a mix-up Friday night which ended in Smith chasing Dolly along Mt. Vernon street. The hour was late and Dolly was garbed only in a night gown. Her cries brought the police and both were arrested.

Saturday morning came and found Dolly in a cell. She still wore her night gown. Smith also occupied a cell. When their cases were called, Dolly pleaded for other clothes to appear in before Judge Hunt, so while the court waited a messenger was dispatched post haste to obtain a dress for Dolly. With the arrival of proper raiment, the arrangements proceeded. Judge Hunt fined them $21.50 each on charges of drunkenness and disorderly conduct.

PASSAGE OF TAX MEASURE SURE IN HOUSE SATURDAY

Democrats Solid Against it But Expect to Make Little Impression on Majority

MINORITY OFFER AMENDMENT TO PRESERVE THE SUR-TAX

House Busy Before Vote Approving Committee Alterations

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The republican tax revision bill was to come to a vote late Saturday in the house with its passage by an overwhelming majority generally conceded.

Democratic leaders predicted a practically solid vote against the measure by their side of the house, but they apparently had little hope that they could draw enough strength from the majority side to make the contest close.

A number of additional amendments were approved Saturday by the ways and means committee which worked practically up to the time the house met at noon.

Democrats Move to Save Surtax

Meantime the democrats declared they would move to recommit the bill with instructions to the committee to eliminate provisions for repeal on next January 1 of the income surtaxes above 32 per cent. The vote on this motion was expected to be taken shortly after 3 p. m. with its rejection generally conceded and was to be followed by the final vote on the passage of the bill.

Getting under way without the usual half hour wait for a quorum to assemble, the house quickly put through the committee amendments as offered. The first one adopted was that exempting "pensions from the United States for service of the beneficiary or another in the military or naval forces of the United States."

Other committee amendments approved for introduction included:

A provision to put insurance companies except fraternal on the same basis, subject to the 12-1-2 per cent corporation tax on net incomes from investments in lieu of present taxes on insurance policies, effective next January 1. The estimated net loss in revenue from this change was placed at $13,000,000.

Cut Out Cosmetic Tax

Elimination from the new bill provision for a manufacturer's tax of five per cent on perfume, cosmetics and other toilet preparations including tooth paste, powder and soap.

Repeal of the present tax of ten per cent on baseball, football and basket ball equipment of all kinds, toboggans, snow shoes and skis, but leaving the five per cent tax on golf and tennis equipment.

Fear Fights Surtax Repeal

Representative Fear of Wisconsin, a republican committeeman, told the house that the bill should be made an economic, not a political issue. He warned that in cutting off the $540,000,000 revenues by repeal of the excess profit tax and the income surtax congress was "skating on thin ice."

Representative Burton, republican, Ohio, replied that congress in repealing the profits levy would be standing on firm economic ground.

Funding Bill in Senate

The administration's old debt funding bill was favorably reported to the senate Saturday by Chairman Penrose of the finance committee. Senator La Follette of Wisconsin submitted a minority report.

An amendment requiring the funding to be completed within five years was added by the committee majority.

The majority report said the funding bill granting wide powers to the treasury secretary in the funding operations afforded "the best and most practicable method of handling the matter." A majority of the committee agreed with secretary Mellon, the report stated, "in that cause the principal foreign governments receiving advances from the proceeds of Liberty Bonds, the United States is committed to the postponement of the interest for two or three years (over two years of which have elapsed) and also to the spreading over subsequent years of the payment of the postponed interest in installments and not to charge interest on the postponed interest at least during the two or three years period."

"However," it continued, "this obligation is contingent upon the foreign government concerned carrying out with reasonable promptness funding of its short time obligations held by the United States after the United States shall be ready to proceed with such negotiations."

The purpose of the bill is described as "to give the secretary of the treasury, with the approval of the president ample power to enable him when the condition of each debtor country shall have been definitely ascertained as the claims of all parties interested shall have been presented, to deal with the situation promptly and broadly in such a way as will, in his judgment best protect the interests of the United States and secure the payment of principle and interest of the debts now owing to it."

Volstead for presentation to other house conferees. Mr. Volstead said he believed representative Tyer, republican, Missouri, and Sumners, democrat, Texas, the other house conferees, would sign the report.

TRAVERSES STATE FROM NORTHWEST TO THE SOUTHEAST

Sheboygan is Hardest Hit, But Only Fatality Reported is at Janesville

MADISON COUNTRY CLUB RAZED BY THE BIG BLOW

Many Towns in Darkness Due to Collapse of Power Systems

MILWAUKEE.—A devastating rain and wind storm bordering on a tornado swept across Wisconsin late Friday and left a large total of injured persons and property destruction in its wake. At least one man was killed.

Entering the state at the northwestern border it apparently followed a diagonal line and made its exit at the southeastern corner. At no place in its path through Wisconsin did the storm appear to center, the burden being scattered among the villages, towns and cities where it hit.

Dozen Hurt at Sheboygan

Sheboygan county reported the heaviest property damage and largest number of injured. Hundreds attending the county fair in progress at Plymouth were caught without shelter and a dozen were taken to the hospital.

In Sheboygan a warehouse was lifted across the arteries of a power company and three nearby towns were plunged in darkness.

At Oshkosh, another point hard hit, thirteen racing yachts were capsized and their sailors hurled into the waters of Lake Winnebago. They were rescued after being numbed by exposure.

Madison Country Club Wrecked

The main building of the golf club at Madison collapsed and buried ten caddies in the ruins. One of them was probably fatally injured.

Scores of trees were uprooted and several buildings struck by lightning at Kenosha.

All means of communication were demoralized and the towns of Burlington, Elkhorn, Brown Lake and Watford were plunged into darkness.

In Milwaukee the storm temporarily knocked out street car traffic and interurban lines, impaired the telegraph, telephone and railroad service. Many trees were uprooted and a building was struck by lightning.

Man Dead at Janesville

JANESVILLE.—One man was killed and several slightly injured by a storm of cyclonic proportions that struck the city at five o'clock Friday afternoon. Lewis Delbert Hayes, 65, living on the edge of the city, was killed when a tree fell in his back yard crushing him to death.

The wind, accompanied by a rain that reached the proportions of a cloud burst, swept across the west and south ends of the city and west and northwest through the country. Tobacco sheds and small buildings in great numbers were blown over. More than fifty trees in the city were thrown down and traffic blocked. The street department worked all night to clear away the debris.

Telephone communication east of the city was cut off and only one wire was left between Janesville and Beloit. Several cases of persons cut or bruised by falling debris were reported. The storm broke into several sections after leaving the city and ended its force to the east near Delavan.

At Monroe where the Green County fair was in full swing with 10,000 people on the grounds, one and three quarters inches of rain fell in an hour. The grounds were a lake. The wind here was not high and only a few stock tents were blown over.

Seven barns near Monroe were blown down or burned after being struck by lightning. Mary Kegan, near Brownstown, was seriously injured when a barn was hit.

The storm seemed to have its point of severe beginning a few miles to the west of Janesville and spread out from here in a fan shape toward the east.

Lightning struck a barn near Sharon and Louis Lauder was knocked over. His face was burned. The barn burned and Lauder was rescued with difficulty.

BARRIE PLAY HERE ENJOYED BY GOOD SIZED AUDIENCE

Wierd Play Splendidly Interpreted by Clever Cast at La Crosse Theater

"Barrie at his best" aptly describes "Mary Rose," the latest play from the facile pen of this gifted writer.

A capacity house showed its appreciation of this wonderful play, when it was presented Friday night at the La Crosse theater by Miss Ruth Chatterton and her associate players.

In the title role Miss Chatterton has a part which demands one of the rarest of the actor's possessions—charm. And this gift is Miss Chatterton's in abundance. The first five minutes on the stage was sufficient to win for her the unqualified approval of the entire audience, and this she held until the final curtain. It is difficult to imagine Miss Chatterton in a duller, sweeter and more thoroughly feminine role than "Mary Rose." Her work in the first scene of the third act, where she returns from "The Island That Likes to be Visited," where she had disappeared twenty-five years before, marks her distinctly as one of America's greatest actresses. She herself is unconscious of the passage of time, and her discovery that her father and mother are very old, her husband middle-aged and that her boy, whom she remembers only as a baby, run away from home at the age of 12, furnishes a tense situation that demands ability of the highest type. There were few dry eyes and sobs from all over the audience were distinctly heard—a tribute not to be taken lightly by any actor or actress.

In the supporting cast, Tom Nesbitt, who doubles in the character of Harry, Mary Rose's son, and Simon Blake, her husband, is deserving of more than passing mention. The part is full of technical tricks that try the ability of the one who essays to act them, but Mr. Nesbitt proved himself equal to the task. As the boyish lover, the devoted, and later, heart-broken husband, he was superb. He opens, and closes the play as Harry, the son who ran away from home at the age of 12, who has been living in Australia and who has visited his boyhood home in the hope of finding those who are but a memory to him.

O. B. Clarence and Winifred Fraser as Mr. and Mrs. Morland, parents of Mary Rose, gave a delightful characterization. The balance of the cast were very satisfactory in their various parts.

BANK ROBBERS FIND VICTIMS ON ALERT

Flee When Met by Barred Door and Armed Staff at Waterford, Wis.

LACINE, Wis.—Advance information received at the state bank of the village of Waterford Friday, frustrated an attempt to rob the institution at high noon. When the two bandits driving a high-powered car bearing an Illinois license plate, drove up to the bank building they were met by barred door with the cashier and employees standing guard and prepared to resist entrance. The men becoming alarmed and sensing the fact that their mission had failed, hurriedly retreated and were last reported at Eagle Lake.

In connection with the preparation of a statement of adjustment which will be filed with City Recorder George W. Hofmann. The filing of the adjustment is in accordance with the decision made by Judge W. F. Booth in his decree in the recent gas case which stated that the Wisconsin-Minnesota Light & Power company be obliged at the end of every four months to file a statement of the holder's cost of the gas manufactured and to adjust the price to the consumers accordingly. The "holder" cost is the cost of the gas when it is in the large tank ready for distribution.

URGE STOCKMEN TO HOLD CATTLE UNTIL MARKET IS CLEAR

CHICAGO.—An appeal to western shippers of livestock to stop loading until congested eastern outlets can be cleared, was made Friday by the Chicago Livestock exchange.

"Under the circumstances, the feasible thing to do is to hold cattle back in the country, especially grassers and short fed stuff until this crisis has passed."

STYLE NOTE

White gloves with black ribs, a white pique in the buttonhole, a pearl-gray derby and gold-headed cane. If you wear these you're in style for the afternoon. For the gentleman so dressed above is none other than King George, himself, on the way to the Goldwood races. Interest in racing in England has increased by leaps and bounds since the war. Never in history has the sport been more popular there.

Probably the largest lump sum ever paid for a novel was the $200,000 received by Alphonse Daudet in 1884 for "Sapho."

GRAIN PROVISIONS PRICES DOWN OWING TO TRADE CONDITION

All Items on Chicago Board of Trade List Show Falling off

CHICAGO.—Prices for all grain and provisions have had a severe fall this week owing largely to notice taken of adverse economic conditions. Compared with a week ago wheat this morning was down 6 1/2 to 8 cents a bushel; corn 2 1/2 to 4 5/8 and 4 3/4; oats 3 cents to 3 1/4 cents, and provisions 35 cents to $1.00.

Downturn in the value of wheat began under the influence of stock market depression which was generally taken here as emphasizing unfavorable reports as a whole. Attention of traders centered specially on official announcement that 5,700,000 people in the United States were out of work and on federal reserve board statements about other factors operating against mercantile progress.

On the decline export demand became broader, country offerings decreased and opinion gained ground that something of a rally was due. Selling, however, remained sufficient to prevent any decided upturn.

Corn and oats descended with wheat and touched the lowest level at this season since 1906.

Provisions were pulled down by weakness in the hog market as well as in grain.

LUTHERAN CHAPEL AND CLUB PLANNED AT WISCONSIN "U"

Synod of Milwaukee Decides Upon Big Development at Madison

MILWAUKEE.—A chapel and a community house will be erected in the near future for the Lutheran students of the university of Wisconsin. It was announced at the session of the Evangelical Lutheran synod of Wisconsin and other states, which holds its biennial meeting here.

The Reverend Hantchel of Madison reviewed the activities of the university mission which was started last fall and made an appeal for more funds to carry on the work. There are 800 Lutheran boys attending the university and three hundred of these are affiliated with the synod.

MANITOWOC CAR LINE THREATENS TO STOP SERVICE

MANITOWOC, Wis.—Retreating that operation of the city car lines is a losing proposition that costs more than $1,000 a month the Manistowoc and Northern Traction company in a second communication to the city council asks that it be absolved from paying paving and sprinkling assessments which the city is demanding.

The company declares that unless the assessments against it are cancelled they will be obliged to discontinue service or place their lines in hands of others. By "others" it is presumed bond-holders are meant.

During April the company says, $1,051 was lost. From January 1 the deficit has grown to $11,240.

Cheerful Meals

Air, light and sunshine are bestowers of health and cheerfulness. For this reason an effort should be made always to have meals in the brightest room, even if it means having breakfast at the back of the house and dinner at the front. It usually can be managed if the housewife will. Meals taken with an open window also make for health; a shut door should obviate draughts, and the open window let in blessed air and light, hand in hand with happiness.

Often the half-shot are heard around the world.

No Dual Role

THE action of the congressional committee which laid on the table the proposal to permit General Wood to remain an army officer and at the same time become governor of the Philippines is one that the country will heartily approve. Had the matter been very widely discussed before it came up to the committee there would almost certainly have been a wide-spread protest from the country, in which the personality of the general would have been but a minor factor. One can hardly understand how the administration would care to place its influence behind such a project, in view of the thorough acceptance in the United States of the necessity of divorcing civil and military power. Surely the political services of General Wood as a party leader—dating no further back than the pre-convention campaign of 1920—do not require as a reward that long-established tradition and precedent of the republic be over-turned. General Wood has been a conspicuously good army officer, and in Cuba made a record as a military administrator that has been greatly praised. But Cuba under military occupation and the Philippines almost ready for their grant of independence are two widely different propositions. The United States has heartily condemned military rule of subordinate provinces as practiced by Japan, Germany and other powers. How could we defend an appointment that would place our island administration on practically the same level?

Rob the Grave

THE Sheppard-Towner bill to provide federal assistance in maternity cases was passed by the senate several weeks ago by a vote of 63 to 7. It went to the house, where it was referred to committee with the understanding that it would be promptly considered and reported out for final action. It still reposes in committee and the news from Washington is that it seems to be the intention to let it die there.

The Sheppard-Towner bill is an effort to alleviate suffering mothers and to save the lives of mothers and babies. In the United States 25,000 women die in childbirth every year. It is conservatively estimated that half of them are the victims of defective care during, preceding or following the birth of the child. The fatalities among children during the critical first year are upwards of 250,000. Women backing the measure feel that as a law the Sheppard-Towner bill would save half of these. The appropriation is $1,480,000. Most countries have a law of the kind. One sees that this would be saving lives at the rate of ten dollars per life. Courts hold that a human life is worth $5,000. In terms of money, if we have the hardihood to consider money in such a connection, the saving would be $4,990 per life, totalling in round numbers $600,000,000 per year. Not a bad bargain even in this practical sense, and what shall we say of nearly 140,000 graves per annum, more than double our killed in the world war!

In a recent address M. B. Olbrich voiced objection to the feature of this bill in which it is provided that any state's allotment from this fund shall be conditioned upon that state's appropriating an equal sum for the same purpose. The point was that this is one of the methods by which there is being built up a centralized government at the expense of the states. The federal educational bill was lost upon similar argument and the same objection would lie to the federal good roads law. In a sense it aims to control state legislation by federal bribery, and it is urged that it constitutes another step toward creating federal power at the expense of state powers reserved by the constitution.

But this does not reach the problem of the 125,000 infant and 12,500 maternal preventable deaths, and can we evade it by engaging in a political discussion? The federal government bribed the states to build good roads by making federal appropriations contingent upon equal state appropriations. In the same way the state of Wisconsin, and others, bribed county and township. As a result we have made great progress in road making, and at the same time educated the public to a willingness to pay for good roads. Federal and state aid could now be abandoned without material let up in highway construction, but at the outset counties and towns would not have paid for the work. Township people who at the outset wouldn't have given a nickel for a mile of concrete had little objection to the state building roads, and less to the nation building them, their opposition diminishing as the distance between them and the appropriating authority increased. The townspeople paid, just the same, but as federal and state expenditures they didn't feel it.

Towns, counties and, for the most part, states, are not saving the mothers and babes who die for want of a little simple knowledge and simple treatment. As in the case of good roads, it has been assumed that federal authority must bribe the states to take action. Perhaps there was a better way, and the bribe could have been omitted. But one thing seems certain. Since the states have neglected it, citizens of the United States have a right to ask the federal government to save these mothers and babies. If the house fails to pass the Sheppard-Towner bill there will be an accounting with American women. Discussion of constitutional problems in our politics is well worth while, but 140,000 unnecessary deaths a year presents a job to be done and citizens of states, who are also citizens of the United States, are ready to let the contract to the first bidder even though the first bidder happens to be Uncle Sam.

"JOURNEYS END--"

By JESSIE DOUGLAS

"I know you'll like Harry," Mrs. Craig said, leaning back on the chaise longue and passing her hand wearily across her forehead. "He's thirty-five has enough money, good habits and a really remarkable taste in old china."

Lila Gilbert answered, "Yes" doubtfully.

She had heard nothing except Harry and Harry's eligibility during her weekend at Mrs. Craig's. She had come to hate his very name.

"I suppose he doesn't even smoke?" she asked a bit scornfully.

"Look here, my dear!" Mrs. Craig sat up straight for a moment and spoke forcefully and to the point. "I like you and I want you to be happy! I know what kind of life you lead in that one wretched room, going out for your meals every day of your life. I know you launder your own waists and paste your handkerchiefs to the mirror and color your last year's straw instead of buying a new one."

"I know because I did it once myself. You've never said anything, but I can imagine just what kind of man old Mr. Hemingway is to work for—and here you have a perfectly good chance to say good-by to all that, and you're going to let it slip!"

Lila reddened perceptibly and opened her mouth to speak, but Mrs. Craig went on quickly.

"You may be younger, but you look twenty-seven, and yet you have all the illusions of youth."

A faint smile curved Lila's lips. "I'm twenty-nine and not an illusion left."

"There—I've been a beast and I'm sorry," Mrs. Craig went on, sitting up and patting Lila's arm. That's the danger of red hair—you will say things you think in spite of years of social training. I want to tell you something else, too. I think you're sweet. You are too sweet to go on working your life out and pretending that you're happy."

She stopped for Lila's eyes looked perilously bright and her lower lip was caught between her teeth.

"The very first time I came into Hemingway's office and saw you and you were so dear to me. I thought you were rare. I'm going to tell you a little secret. When I married Robert I promised myself the satisfaction of doing eccentric things if I chose, and one of these was to make friends where and how I wished."

She leaned her head against her cushions and lifted a ringed white hand to her temple. "And now as I told you, I'm going to ask to be excused. Last sleep must be made up, and I've had two late nights."

Lila went across to her own charming rooms that overlooked the gardens. Nothing was quite real to her yet; it was as though she had unexpectedly stepped on to the stage and this was one of those luxurious scenes in the first act.

She leaned her hot cheeks against the window pane and looked down across the sweep of lawns to the Italian pergola and the terraced garden beyond.

She ought to begin to dress now for dinner.

"I know he'll hate me," Lila thought, looking pensively in the mirror at herself. "I'm not pretty—only at times."

She studied her face with the dark, sweet eyes and level line of brow, the white forehead, the dusky hair. She could see nothing to allure in it, for she saw it in repose, without the sparkle of animation, the sweetness of the smile, nor did she hear the sweet deep tones of her own voice as others heard them.

"Excuse me, mademoiselle," a lavender clad maid said, "but madame has retired and asks that you will take her place at dinner."

Lila, alone, felt a moment of panic. To be responsible for Harry's entertainment! she shivered at the thought. She was shy anyway and the idea of sitting with him at that round table, while the butler moved noiselessly behind them, was terribly painful.

"And I know Mrs. Craig has talked to him as much about me as she has talked to me about him!" she groaned.

"Ah, Miss Gilbert, Anne told me I was to have this pleasure!"

Lila bowed, seeing in one glance that "Harry" was a fat dumpling of a man with a shining bald head and small blue eyes behind thick glasses.

He spoke in a hurried tone and chuckled occasionally at remarks that meant nothing to Lila. But she found herself seated opposite him under the light of shaded candles with great yellow roses separating them, while a silent stepping butler served them perfectly.

This was Harry! She didn't like anything about him. His ridiculous way of talking, his way of eating, his food before he ate it, his chuckle, his peculiar way of staring at her through those glasses that made his eyes so bulging.

Harry didn't seem to find her interesting.

When after dinner she stole out on the terrace a moment to find herself free for the time being, she gave a sigh of relief; the sky was embroidered with silver stars, the ghostly light of the moon gave a fairy-like aspect to the world.

She walked on and on—farther away from Harry—until stopping in a gravelled path she heard a car drive up.

It swept past down the bend of the road to the garage. A moment later it seemed the chauffeur in a cap pulled down over his eyes walked slowly back.

He pulled off his cap and said politely, "Good-evening," and then turned as Lila gave a little cry of discomfort as her dress caught in the thorns of a climbing rose.

"There," he said, "now you are free."

His voice was pleasant, deep and rich, and Lila, aware that he was the chauffeur, found him more attractive than the rich man back in the house. She walked slowly along beside him.

"I think you're new here?" he asked.

She knew in a moment that he fancied her one of the maids.

"Yes," she hesitated.

"They don't know what living is back there, do they?" he suddenly asked vehemently. "Eating rich foods,

ONE REEL YARNS

THE TWIN'S PILLS

Marie lay on the davenport with a hot cloth across her forehead. She had the sick-headache.

"Oh!" she moaned. "It does hurt so!"

In a corner of the room the twins, Betty and Bobby, were playing. Not being used to having a sick sister they were awed into playing as quietly as possible for two lively four-year-olds. Their game was "doctor." A new one suggested by Marie's illness. On the floor were little piles of beans, small candies, and other objects which were serving as pills.

An Operation

Dr. Bobby was operating on the teddy-bear and Nurse Betty was looking on. Suddenly the bear, having been squeezed in the stomach, uttered a falsetto grunt, like teddy-bears do.

This amused the children; they giggled and proceeded to do it again.

"Mother, can't you keep those children quiet?" groaned Marie. "I can't stand all that noise. Haven't you some pills or something that might do my head some good? These hot cloths don't seem to help at all."

"Tired, hungry, everything but discouraged," she walked the streets till after midnight. She was exhausted. There was no food or shelter in view.

At last he noticed a board walk higher than the others. One board was loose, waiting until no one was looking, he crawled under the walk and there spent the night.

All night long he could hear the tramp of feet over his head. It was the first bed along the path, or, more correctly, "under the path," leading toward his education.

Delivering the Pills

Betty and Bobby set off in great glee. It was only on rare occasions that they were trusted to do an errand. Their mother gave them a nickel all their very own to spend for candy.

They were so interested in their own purchases and the business of moving their hospital out under the trees where they would not disturb Marie that, when they returned, they forgot to take the pills in to their mother.

When she came out to hunt for them the twins were nowhere in sight. The box of pills was under the tree with the beans and candy pills.

Mrs. Spencer gave Marie two of the pills, and in a short time her head was better and she was able to get up.

"Those pills certainly are wonderful," said Mrs. Spencer.

Just then Betty and Bobby came in. Both were in tears.

"Somebody stole our red-drops," they sobbed.

"Why, what have you right there in your sack?" their mother asked in surprise.

"But those aren't licked," they explained. "We licked the red all off the others to play they were pills."

PARABLE OF THE NIGHT FLOWER

I have a friend who rang our Telephone Bell, and spoke thus unto me and Keturah:

Come over to our house and see that you hasten; for behold, our Night-Blooming Cereus is about to bloom.

Now if he had called the half of an hour later, my Night-Blooming proclivities would have been hard at work in slumber; for it was Bed Time.

But we put on our wraps, and went over, and Keturah drolled herself up a little, but not too much. For she knew that there would be others present. For the friends who invited us warmed up the wires and quilled in their friends. And there was quite a bunch of us when we all arrived.

Now it had been many years since I had seen a Night-Blooming Cereus in bloom, and I had rather forgotten what manner of plant it was. And when I beheld it, it was as uninviting as any Cactus before Mr. Barbauld laid hold upon it and sheared off the spines thereof. For this was by no means spineless.

Wax-Like Flower

But while we waited, the plant got busy, and there bloomed a marvelous wax-like flower, which opened its sitting in rooms when one can be free and have the whole world for a hunting ground!

"Can one?" she asked wistfully.

"Yes, if they don't catch you and marry you to some wretched little husband hunter," he growled.

Lila laughed. The man turned swiftly and looked at her face illumined by the moonlight, at the line of her throat and her dark sweet eyes.

"Are they trying to do that to you, too?" she whispered. "I thought they only did that to girls."

The moon rising high flooded the lawns with silver, and showed each other their faces. The man could not seem to tear his eyes away. Lila looking at him swiftly thought that he looked strong and fine and clean—not like Harry in there who was so eligible. And then before she turned her face away he said, "Why are you so unhappy?"

He caught himself up with, "I'm sorry. Forgive me, but there was something in your eyes that told me you were lonely, too."

They wandered down to the terraced garden, and Lila in the wilderness of the silvery night knew that she would be sorry later, but she stole this one hour to feel. Perhaps he was only a chauffeur, but his voice was beautiful and he talked well and told of places where he had been until the world spread out like some warm-colored picture before her eyes.

"Now tell me about yourself," he begged.

But Lila, shaking off the spell, knew that her hour of enchantment was over.

"At least you'll tell me your name. I've always thought that barriers were ridiculous when one finds a real person. Nothing else matters," he said.

"Lila," she said gently.

They walked in silence to the house, but Anne Craig rose up from the darkness of the veranda and cried, "Oh, here you are, Harry—and Miss Gilbert. Robert told me that you were not there for dinner!"

In mock dismay they faced each

ANYBODY CAN READ GAS METER — IT IS SIMPLE

"I wish I knew how to read the gas meter," said Mrs. Gibson. "and then I could keep track of how much gas I am using during the month."

"Oh, I know how," cried Jim feeling very important. "I watched the gas man the last time he was here and he showed me how. Come on down cellar where the meter is and I'll show you right away."

"Why, how fine!" responded his mother. "I wish you would, Jim. I've wanted to know for ever so long but I've always thought it was a complicated process that only gas men could understand."

"It isn't at all," said John as he pointed out the meter. "See there are five dials. The gas man said not to pay any attention to the two top ones as they are test dials. The other three dials are marked 10 thousand, 1 thousand, and 1 hundred. You read them by taking the number that the hand has just passed, the hand in the first is now between 2 and 3 so that is 2, that in the second is between 3 and 4 so that is 3, and the third is 5. That makes it read 23,500. He said the meter ran continuously so what we use each month is figured by subtracting last month's reading from this month's."

"I guess I haven't made it very plain, but do you see how it is done?"

"Yes, I understand, and it isn't hard at all is it?"

"Gee, I'm glad I listened, so I could explain it all to you."

"I'm glad, too," said his mother.

PARABLE OF THE NIGHT FLOWER

I have a friend who rang our Telephone Bell, and spoke thus unto me and Keturah:

Come over to our house and see that you hasten; for behold, our Night-Blooming Cereus is about to bloom.

Now if he had called the half of an hour later, my Night-Blooming proclivities would have been hard at work in slumber; for it was Bed Time.

But we put on our wraps, and went over, and Keturah drolled herself up a little, but not too much. For she knew that there would be others present. For the friends who invited us warmed up the wires and quilled in their friends. And there was quite a bunch of us when we all arrived.

Now it had been many years since I had seen a Night-Blooming Cereus in bloom, and I had rather forgotten what manner of plant it was. And when I beheld it, it was as uninviting as any Cactus before Mr. Barbauld laid hold upon it and sheared off the spines thereof. For this was by no means spineless.

Wax-Like Flower

But while we waited, the plant got busy, and there bloomed a marvelous wax-like flower, which opened its sitting in rooms when one can be free and have the whole world for a hunting ground!

"Can one?" she asked wistfully.

"Yes, if they don't catch you and marry you to some wretched little husband hunter," he growled.

Lila laughed. The man turned swiftly and looked at her face illumined by the moonlight, at the line of her throat and her dark sweet eyes.

"Are they trying to do that to you, too?" she whispered. "I thought they only did that to girls."

The moon rising high flooded the lawns with silver, and showed each other their faces. The man could not seem to tear his eyes away. Lila looking at him swiftly thought that he looked strong and fine and clean—not like Harry in there who was so eligible. And then before she turned her face away he said, "Why are you so unhappy?"

He caught himself up with, "I'm sorry. Forgive me, but there was something in your eyes that told me you were lonely, too."

They wandered down to the terraced garden, and Lila in the wilderness of the silvery night knew that she would be sorry later, but she stole this one

RECORD FIELD OF GOLFERS TO MEET IN WESTERN OPEN

Annual Tournament to be Held at Oakwood Club, Cleveland, Ohio, Next Week

JIM BARNES AND JOCK HUTCHINSON INCLUDED

Will Head Team Match Between Pros of East and West

CLEVELAND.—"Big Babes" of American golf will play at the Oakwood golf club, Cleveland, on August 23, for the annual western open championship.

The stellar entry list will include Jim Barnes, national open champion; Jock Hutchinson, British open champion; western open champion, P. G. A., and north and south open champion; Bob Macdonald, Metropolitan open champion; Bill Trowing, Canadian open champion and all of the other leading professionals and many of the best amateurs.

Oakwood course, offers the stars a hard mark to shoot at. It has been built eight years, yet has never been beaten or equalled in tournament competition and the club has been the scene of the Ohio amateur and open tournaments; Cleveland association matches and championships and inter-city contests.

Until last day recently 72, one stroke above par, was the best ever scored on the course. Grange Alves, Shaker Heights professional, and Joe K. Role, former Ohio amateur champion, shared that record. Then Bennett French, Youngstown professional who captured the pro team in England, came there for a practice round and made the course in 70.

The club is offering a neat cash prize to the player having the lowest score during the 72 holes of play, and in addition the usual lucrative Western Golf association prizes will be up for the visitors.

The tournament will start on August 23 with a team match between the pros of the east and west. Jim Barnes will captain the eastern team and Jock Hutchinson the west. Twelve men will be on each side and play will be over thirty-six holes.

Oakwood members are making great preparations for the championship and will offer every accommodation to both the players and gallery.

A feature of the championship will be the play of Chick Evans, national amateur and western amateur champion, and Bobby Jones, the youthful Atlanta boy.

These chaps are the leaders of the amateur contingent and the gallery will closely watch their play in this tournament as only one stroke separated them in the national of 1920 and also of 1921.

Gentile and Pagan

The word gentile is derived from words meaning people of the country, or of the world, or of a clan. For centuries it has been used as a convenient appellation for all the people who are not Jews. The word pagan simply meant a country dweller, but grew to have the meaning "ignorant of Christianity," applied to it.

Davey To Umpire Game Between Two Dark Teams Today

The services of Allan Davey, catcher for the La Crosse ball team, have been secured to umpire the game between the Union Giants and the Illinois Giants at the old League park grounds tonight. Davey is well known and well liked by all the fans in the city and the two colored teams have both expressed themselves as being well pleased with the choice of Davey as umpire.

The Union Giants have the edge on the Illinois Giants slightly as to their season's records, but the Illinois Giants have been strengthened recently by the addition of some new men, making the relative strength of the two teams problematical. Announcement has been made that the gate receipts will be divided on the basis of 65 per cent to the winners and 35 per cent to the losers.

The records of the colored teams for this season are as follows:

Union Giants.....91 20 4
Illinois Giants.....74 25 6

Indications are that Thomas Lipton will challenge for America's cup in 1922.

Cost of this race is enormous. A half million on each side wouldn't cover the bill.

It cost $500,000 to defend the cup 18 years ago with the Reliance. Expenses last year cost both sides near a million.

NEW RECORD SET FOR DISTANCE IN CASTING TOURNAY

PORTLAND, Ore.—Anglers of the Illinois Casting Club of Chicago scored heavily in the opening events of the 13th Annual International Fly and Bait casting tournament which began here Friday.

Remarkable scores were made by the leaders in the three events held and one world's record was broken when William Stanley of the Illinois club lunged up a new average of 232 2-5 feet in the one half ounce distance bait event. The previous record of 222 feet average was established by W. S. Flegel of Racine Wisconsin in 1914. R. Heffield, also of the Illinois club, broke the half ounce distance bait event record when he shot 222 3-5 foot average, placing second to Stanley. First place in the one quarter ounce accuracy and the dry fly accuracy, the other two events run off also went to members of the Illinois club, R. S. Jeffers taking the quarter ounce accuracy with a score of 99.3 and Fred W. Kuesel of St. Paul winning dry fly event with a mark of 99.10-15.

"HENRY F. SULLIVAN WILL SWIM ENGLISH CHANNEL THIS TIME," SAYS HIS FATHER

LOWELL, Mass.—Henry F. Sullivan, 28, is in England preparing to make his fourth attempt to swim the English channel.

"Henry is going to succeed this time," says Thomas B. Sullivan, father of the long distance swimmer, who lives here.

"I don't see how my boy can fail this time. He has everything that's necessary for such a feat. I'd like for anyone to show me what he lacks for that kind of a job."

"He has a natural swimming physique. He weighs 225 pounds and has wonderful endurance."

"My boy hasn't any bad habits. He smokes a cigar occasionally. That's the nearest approach to vice he has. And he doesn't smoke when in training."

Sullivan made his first attempt to swim the channel in 1913. He started from North Foreland. He was in the water 10 hours. He traveled a distance of about 35 miles, including drifts and tides. He was within five miles of the French coast before he had to give up.

THAT 19 YARDS MARK AT G. A. H.

Trapshooting Classic Has Been Won Six Times From That Yardage

Trapshooters standing on the 19 yards mark have won the Grand American Handicap, the blue ribbon event of trapdom, six times in 21 tries, and because of this fact a great deal of attention will be paid to the shooters who are on the 19 yards mark when the Grand American is shot in Chicago on August 26.

Last year at Cleveland Al Ivins of Red Bank, N. J., won the event from 19 yards, and the second, third and fourth shooters also stood at 19 yards. Mark Aric and Woodfolk Henderson shooting from 23 yards finished fifth and sixth. In 1901 P. C. Griffith, now the champion of Rhode Island, won the event from 19 yards, and since that time R. D. Gupill at Indianapolis in 1914; Riley Thompson in Chicago in 1910; W. E. Phillips in Springfield in 1912, and Jack Wolf in St. Louis in 1916 shot from the favored spot.

Ivins went to Cleveland with the bunch that he was going to win the handicap. He had never shot in it before, but something told him if he entered he would win. He followed the bunch. Jack Wolf came to St. Louis in 1915 confident he was going to win. He announced it beforehand. In fact passed out photographs to newspaper men so that they could have cuts made and be ready when the final returns came in. Wolf won. Maybe there is something in playing these hunches or shooting with borrowed guns, for this seems to be a favorite stunt in Grand American Handicaps.

George Lorimer won in 1919 with a gun he had never used before. John Henry borrowed a gun and won in 1918, and Mark Aric came within an ace of winning last year with a borrowed gun.

So the dope would be to borrow a gun and then decide you will win the Grand American Handicap and go to it. All you have to do then is to break the targets.

LIE IS PASSED IN HOUSE AGAIN IN TAX BILL DEBATE

Byrnes of South Carolina and Fordney in Partisan Altercation

WASHINGTON.—The lie was passed in the house again Friday by Representative Byrnes, democrat, South Carolina, after Chairman Fordney of the ways and means committee had repeated his assertion of Thursday that the South Carolina member's statement that the tax bill was drawn by the republicans to pay campaign debts was untrue and that Mr. Byrnes knew it was untrue.

There was uproar and representative Chandler, republican Oklahoma declared: "You cannot talk to an old man that way."

Other republicans started toward the democratic side from which there came a shout "come on" but the sergeant-at-arms intervened and later both Mr. Fordney and Mr. Byrnes again withdrew what had been said and apologized to the house.

LA FOLLETTE AND BORAH START WAR ON FUNDING BILL

Administration Measure to Fund Rail Debts Starts Stormy Career in Senate

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The administration's railroad funding bill was reported to the senate Friday with assurances that it would not be called up for consideration prior to the recess, set for next week.

Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, served notice that if any attempt was made to rush it through he would demand that many senators return here to vote.

Senator La Follette, republican Wisconsin, member of the interstate commerce committee, which reported the bill, protested against the committee's failure to hear all witnesses who desired to testify in opposition to it. He characterized the bill as "lopsided."

DAME NATURE BUSILY HEALING WAR SCARS ALONG FRENCH FRONT

Fighting Zone Shows Remarkable Recovery from Conditions of War-Time

SOISSONS, France.—Nature is making such rapid progress in healing the scars of war in France, that outside of towns where ruins are still standing, it will soon be impossible to discover the famous front line of four years of war without close examination.

It has become evident that the abandoned project of maintaining intact, as it existed at the close of hostilities, the line from Neuport, in Belgium, to Belfort, as a lesson to future generations, could not have been carried out excepting at an enormous expense.

Forests that were supposed to have been annihilated have shown remarkable recovery. Positions that were upheaved repeatedly until the snobs covered the surface almost completely, giving every appearance of hopeless aridity, have been slowly covered by vegetation.

Even the famous height along which runs the Chemin des Dames (the Ladies' Way), is covered with thick herbage, that remains green in spite of the drought. In order to preserve certain famous war scenes such as the Bayonet Trench at Verdun, it was necessary to erect a shelter and protect the trench from the slow but sure work of nature in order to preserve it as it was during the great battle.

EAU CLAIRE CROOK SHOOTS POLICEMAN

Arrested on Visit for Crimes in West He Wounds Acting Chief

EAU CLAIRE, Wis.—Edward R. Allen, who uses several aliases, according to police, pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault with intent to kill and was bound over to the circuit court for trial under $25,000 bail which was not furnished.

Captain George Wolf, acting chief since the death of police Chief Sundby who was killed following an attempted arrest of a man on a robbery charge, is recovering from a bullet wound inflicted by Allen when the acting chief arrested him.

Allen is said to be wanted in Everett, Washington, for jail breaking. He was held in that city on a charge of safe blowing and had come to this place to visit his aged parents. Captain Wolf recognized him and he was being taken to the city jail when he produced a pistol and fired, wounding the officer. Allen was later placed in jail.

NEWSPAPER FINDS CLUE TO KENNEDY MURDER MYSTERY

Locates Gunsmith Who Repaired Weapon Similar to that Held by Police

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—Authorities investigating the mysterious slaying here August 5, of J. Robert Kennedy, broker, were informed through a newspaper story of the discovery of a gunsmith, R. C. King, and his story that a week before the killing of the broker he repaired an old-fashioned double-barreled shot-gun stock for a young and apparently "well-to-do" customer.

It is an old-fashioned shot-gun stock, minus two barrels, which the district attorney's office has been holding for several days as one of the most important features of the case. It was turned over to the authorities by a beach camper near Santa Monica, who said he found it August 6 washed on the sands by the waves. The barrels have never been recovered.

STOLEN BIKE FOUND IN HOME; MAXWELL FACES THEFT CHARGE

Charles Maxwell was arrested Friday afternoon charged with stealing bicycles from E. W. Guenther, fourteenth and Pine streets, and Matthew Ronk. According to Mr. Guenther, he traced Maxwell to the Rubber Mills, where he is employed, and identified the bicycle, which belongs to Mr. Guenther's son. A search warrant was procured and Ronk's bicycle was also found at Maxwell's home, in the 2000 block in Leominster street.

Both Mr. Guenther and Mr. Ronk have positively identified the bicycles, although apparently an effort had been made to disguise them by exchanging the seats and pedals of the two bicycles and repainting them.

Maxwell was arraigned before County Judge Bradley Saturday morning and pleaded not guilty. He was held in $1,000 bail and his examination was set for August 24.

Houses Razed near Kenosha

KENOSHA, Wis.—Related reports of the Friday night storm reaching Kenosha indicated that the damages which total thousands of dollars resulted in the western part of Kenosha county. Two large ice houses were wrecked, a score of buildings were unroofed and many people had narrow escapes but no serious injury to any one has been reported. The path of the storm was through the Lake Park neighborhood and many cottages on the banks of the lake were wrecked.

In the village of Bristol it was declared that three houses had been demolished.

Air Trip With House

The wind played an expensive prank on J. T. Lavey, a blacksmith, who lived over his shop in the town of Bristol. While Lavey was lowering a window in his bedroom, the wind lifted the entire second story of the building, carried it several yards and dropped it. Lavey was unharmed and the window was not broken by the large amount of damage done at the house and furniture.

Three Hurt at Madison

MADISON, Wis.—The worst summer squall which has visited this city in years demolished the club house and two smaller buildings at the Maple Bluff Golf links here Friday afternoon, injuring three persons none of them seriously. Lights were cut out of commission for an hour, street car service was tied up by falling trees, and telephone communication was cut off temporarily. Part of the roof of the west side Milwaukee road round-house was blown off. Wind was blowing at 44 miles an hour during the peak of the storm. A total of 1.13 inches of rain fell.

Lightning Damages Oshkosh

OSHKOSH, Wis.—The wind and thunder storm of Friday afternoon was one of the most severe in years. The Universal Motor Company plant was crippled by lightning which put its electrical machinery out of commission. Several hundred telephones were completely shut off. The grand stand at the fair-grounds in process of construction was struck and damaged and the main exposition building set on fire by another bolt, but extinguished by the fire department. The gate tender's house on the Soo Line was blown over, the gate tender narrowly escaping being crushed as it fell. A motor in the plant of the Oshkosh Overall Company was burned out, causing a panic among the girls, one of whom fainted and was not revived for several hours.

Reached Down into Illinois

ZION, Ill.—The storm which swept northeastern Illinois, partially unroofed Shiloh Tabernacle, the church of Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of Zion, wrecked the skylights of the Zion department store, owned by Voliva's Christian Catholic Apostolic church, and tore down eight of the huge signboards which the overseer recently organized attacking rival religious organizations.

One of the signs demolished was located on the main street directly across the street from a 20 foot signboard advertising a cheap smoking tobacco, which the "indulgents" had appropriated from a railroad right-of-way and erected in tobaccoless Zion. The tobacco sign was not damaged.

AMERICAN FARMERS PLANNING COLONY IN NORTHERN PERU

Advance Guard on Way to Sacramento Valley. With 200 Families to Follow

LIMA, Peru.—A group of American farmers, comprising the advance guard of a colonization scheme said to involve more than 200 families from the western United States, arrived here recently enroute to the Pampa del Sacramento valley along the eastern bank of the Amazon river, in northern Peru, where the colony is to be established.

The party is in charge of J. B. Schoenfeld, of Oklahoma, Okla., formerly United States Indian agent for Oklahoma territory, who obtained, for colonization purposes, a grant of 500,000 acres of agricultural and forestry lands from the Peruvian government last October.

After the preliminary location of the lands in the concession is completed, it is planned to bring the remaining colonists, numbering about 800, to the settlement via Para, Brazil and the Amazon and Ucayali rivers. The former is navigable from its mouth on the Atlantic ocean to Iquitos, Peru, about 2,000 miles.

In an interview published in the West Coast Leader, Mr. Schoenfeld said that, owing to drought and crop failure, a number of farmers in the central west had expressed their desire to seek more fertile and profitable fields.

"I decided to look over South America," he said, "since most of the American government's desirable vacant lands, that could be obtained at a low price, have been allotted to foreign immigrants. The colonists, who are chiefly from the west, are farmers of some means and they can secure their farms at a very low cost as soon as 200 families have been settled on the concession."

About half of the tract, according to Mr. Schoenfeld, consists of grassy plains, rolling hills and valleys. The remainder is forest. The land is said to be suitable for producing all kinds of agricultural products, especially sugar, cotton, corn, rice, indigo and tobacco. The farms will be divided into tracts of from 500 to 5,000 acres with an average of about 1,000 acres for each family.

INDIANS VS. JAPS IN DAVIS SINGLES; JAPS HAVE EDGE

LAKE FOREST.—Japan furnished India a consolation chance in the last two singles matches of the Davis Cup semi-final round on the turf courts at Onwentsia Club this afternoon. Ichihara Kunage, captain of the Japanese team and Zensho Shimidzu, his dynamic little team-mate took the courts against D. A. Fryze and Mahommed Slem of India respectively.

Although the matches were in the nature of an anti-climax as far as the matter of team supremacy was concerned they drew the largest and most fashionable crowd of the three days series. Chicago and Lake Forest society turned out in numbers.

Japan clinched the victory over India Friday when the team of Kunage and Shimidzu vanquished Fryze and L. S. Deane of India in the doubles 6-1, 6-1, 2-6, 2-6, 6-0, stampeding the Indians after the big break of the game in the first game of the final set.

WOULD USE ESTATE TAXES FOR STATE EDUCATION FUNDS

MADISON, Wis.—The state board of education has directed its secretary, Edward A. Filpatrick, to work out a plan of using the proceeds of the inheritance tax fund will be used to replace the money owed to the common school fund and the normal school fund by the state. After that the proceeds will go into a special new fund to be created to meet the increasing cost of education.

It was suggested at the meeting that the state of Wisconsin might build up a method of financing the state government which would make any scheme of federal aid unnecessary and the creation of this fund will be aimed to work out that policy.

Farming Facts

Valuable as showing the extent of the agricultural industry by comparison are the figures of the 1910 census. Approximately 12,300,000 persons—the farmer himself and his hired help—were then employed in agriculture, 20 per cent. more than in all manufacturing and mechanical industries combined; 372 per cent. more than all the bankers, merchants, wholesalers, jobbers and retailers, and 1281 per cent. more than the number engaged in the extraction of minerals.

Telephone Popular in U. S.
The total number of telephones in service in the British Isles on December 31, 1920 was 988,500 and in the United States approximately 13,500,000. Flowers Found New Homes
It is not generally known that the belladonna lily was procured from South America in 1593, while the Guernsey lily was brought from Japan and was first cultivated at the beginning of the Seventeenth century in the garden of an Englishman in Paris. This plant is said to have derived its name from the following episode. A ship, laden with bulbs, was wrecked off the coast of Guernsey. A number of the bulbs were cast upon the shore and took root in the soil, where they grew rapidly.

The Amateur's Score
W. S. Gilbert once received a letter from an amateur composer suggesting that they should collaborate. "My score," wrote the amateur, "will be satisfactory, for though educated as a chemist, I am a born composer." Gilbert wrote back regretting that he could not comply with the request. "I should have preferred," said he, "a born chemist who had been educated as a musician."

In The MOVIES

AT THE THEATERS TODAY
Rivoli—Mary Miles Minter in "Moonlight and Honeysuckle"; Johnny Hines in "Daddy Long Legs"; and Beyerstedts orchestra.
Riviera—Jubilee Girls in "Fair and Warmer"; Bert Lytell in "The Misleading Lady"; comedy, "Daddy Long Legs"; orchestra.
Casino—Gladys Walton in "All Dolled Up"; Lyons and Moran comedy, "Blue Sunday".
Strand—Mary Roberts Rinehart's "Dangerous Days"; Fox News.

SOME COMBINATION
"Moonlight and Honeysuckle"—what more could one ask of Dan Cupid? Add Mary Miles Minter and you have an irresistible combination. Which goes to show that Realart certainly knew what they were doing when they secured this wonderful stage success for the latest vehicle to bring their inimitable star before the public.

The Rivoli Theater is now showing this corking comedy-drama, for last time tonight. The unusual complications that arise from Mary's two trial engagements offer unlimited opportunities for real humor.

Monte Blue and Guy Oliver, who have not appeared with Miss Minter since the release of "A Cumberland Romance" nearly a year ago, are again seen in support of the star. Needless to add, Monte Blue is again the victorious lover of the little heroine.

MARY PICKFORD COMING

In "Through the Back Door," Mary Pickford's forthcoming United Artists' release, this clever little artist will be afforded an opportunity for the display of talent equalled only in such previous productions as "Pollyanna" and "Daddy Long Legs." Arrangements were recently completed by Manager Koppelman of the Rivoli Theater to show this production beginning Sunday for three days.

It is the first picture in which Little Mary ever worked under the guidance of two directors. Alfred C. Green and Mary's brother Jack sponsored this production, and the result of their combined efforts is said to prove further the truth of the old adage, "Two heads are better than one."

The outstanding feature of "Through the Back Door" is the delightful comedy sequences scattered throughout the picture. In a little girl role Miss Pickford has a chance to become involved in innumerable complications all prospective of mirth, not touched with the pathos which stamps this greatest of all ingenues as mistress of her art.

MAJESTIC THEATER OPENS ON SUNDAY WITH VAUDEVILLE

The Majestic theater opens tomorrow with five acts of vaudeville and feature photoplays. The first program at the Majestic will be made up of five classy Junior Orpheum acts, which will be announced in tomorrow's paper and the feature photoplay "Short Skirts."

Not the least interesting feature of "Short Skirts" the production coming to the Majestic theater Sunday, with Gladys Walton in the stellar role, is the artistic prologue which precedes the main story.

"Short Skirts" is a picture with a message. It is not a story told for the sake of a moral nor does it drag in a lesson by its heels; but in a subtle way it points to the tendency to make the transition from childhood to maturity with a simple bound. This, the story points out, is due to the examples set young people by their elders and to the lack of restraint in the average American home. In order to get his audience in a proper frame of mind for the story, the producer has opened his picture with a prologue which shows the evolution of the modern "flapper" and the influence of the grandmothers on the girls of today. In the prologue is reproduced Whistler's masterpiece, "Mother," Florence Lee, a stately old lady and an actress of skill and charm, was selected by Director Har-
